

Employee Feedback

With Alta360 Research Employee Feedback services, you have the ability to poll your team at any given time on important issues such as management communication, training, compensation, health insurance benefits, or concerns relating to ethics issues, whether witnessed or personally experienced.

Because our surveys are offered online and optimized for access by a mobile device, employees can submit them conveniently and can have the anonymity they desire to freely respond, giving you true insight into your company's culture and the thoughts and opinions of your team.

This online format also allows you to have instant access to feedback data and gives you the reporting options you need to identify potential issues before they grow into large, morale-damaging problems.
